About Appasaheb Birnale College of Architecture Sangli:

Shri Vasantao Banduji Patil Trust's, Appasaheb Birnale College of Architecture, Sangli

Vision: Architecture and planning are the backbone of the built environment. Our institute is committed to developing students with diverse perspectives and ideas that generate sustainable architecture concepts and innovations which lead towards human sustainability on the planet Earth.

Mission: To strive for quality architecture education by enhancing and preserving the ethical values of life and profession among the students. Our focus is to develop the concept of UASI (understanding, analyzing, synthesizing, and innovating), which is the base of quality education and a strong pillar of education in architecture. Such a concept of education leads towards the development of sensitive and responsible professionals for the society.

About Abhalmaya Foundation:

Abhalmaya, made up of two Marathi words - 'Abhal' meaning sky and 'Maya' meaning nurture, signifies our love for nature that extends beyond infinity. It is as huge as the sky. The founder President Mr. Pramod Chaugule is a renowned architect in Maharashtra, India. After working as an architect for more than 25 years, he felt the need to educate

1.0 OPEN SPACE DEVELOPMENT AT ANANDVAN BALOUDYAN -2023/24

1. Title of the Practice

Sustainable Open Space Development Using Recycled and Waste Materials at Anandan Baloudyan, 100ft road, Vishrambag, Sangli.

2. Objectives of the Practice

To promote sustainability by creating open spaces using recycled materials like plastic bottles, tyres, bamboo, and building waste, fostering environmental awareness, creativity, and community engagement.

3. The Context

In the face of rapid urbanisation and waste accumulation, the college sought to address both the shortage of functional open spaces and the growing environmental concerns. The challenge was integrating recycled materials into aesthetic and usable designs within budget constraints.

4. The Practice

Students of Appasaheb Birnale College of Architecture designed and built an open space using waste and recycled materials, including plastic bottles, tyres, bamboo, and construction debris. The project encouraged innovation and highlighted eco-friendly construction methods while addressing space shortages. Challenges included sourcing quality materials and ensuring structural integrity, but creative solutions were employed.

5. Evidence of Success

The completed open space became a popular spot for students and visitors, demonstrating the viability of using waste materials in construction. The project gained positive feedback for its aesthetic appeal, functionality, and environmental contribution. The success was measured by the increasing engagement in eco-friendly initiatives on campus.

6. Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Challenges included sourcing sufficient quantities of suitable waste materials, dealing with the technical difficulties of recycling complex materials, and managing labor and time constraints. Resources needed included skilled labor, collection infrastructure, and collaboration with local recyclers.

7. Notes

This project can serve as a model for other institutions looking to address waste management while creating functional, green spaces. Replicating the practice requires community collaboration, sustainable material sourcing, and strong
